Heinemann in America

By

Charles W. Heinemann

Heinemann Coat of Arms

1946281

TO THE HEINEMANNS:

It is to be hoped you will find enjoyment in reading this little booklet, the first work of its kind devoted to a history of the Heinemanns and allied families in America.

Those who have cooperated by furnishing material for the work have been patient indeed. It seems remarkable that of the thousands of letters written, only one correspondent displayed impatience and that was justifiable.

In starting upon this work the first step was a search through each current telephone, city and county directory on file in the Library of Congress. Needless to say there were thousands of them, but each one was checked and names taken from them. An endeavor was made to avoid duplication, by addressing the original inquiries to one person at each address. After an interval, during which we failed to receive a reply from some, a second letter was sent. Many who failed to reply to the first, did reply to the second. However, it is regrettable that many did not reply to either.

Unquestionably, there are many of the names in the directory which belong to some branch of the 145 families whose history we have given. Had they responded to our letters we could have identified them with their proper lineage.

It is respectfully suggested that all who receive this booklet follow this programme:

- 1 - Locate and read your own family history and notify me of any errors found therein. This should be done promptly so that I may correct the copies to be sent to certain libraries.
- 2 - Check over the directory and if you find any additional names which belong in your family list, advise me their numbers and the relationship in case the history does not disclose it.
- 3 - Read each family history carefully and see if you cannot find related families in other groups. I am reasonably sure many of the 145 families could be joined with others if only the information had been furnished.
- 4 - If you have any relatives or acquaintances in Germany to whom you could write for additional information you should do so at once. Their Church, State and Government records are generally quite complete and Vital Statistics have been carefully preserved for many years.
- 5 - Teach your children to continue the record of your family in a manner that will preserve the information for future generations.

Some few correspondents replied to my letters, but failed to identify themselves so as to enable me to record their information. Others promised to complete their record and forward it, but it was not received, or received too late for use.

It is a pleasure to present each cooperating correspondent with a copy of this booklet. Only a few extra copies are available and these are to be presented to selected libraries. No extra copies have been made for sale to outsiders or through book stores. Should any outsider desire a copy it will have to be handled on a special order, and only a very few can be supplied. The cost of them will have to be determined when the order is placed.

The author is exceedingly grateful to each person who cooperated. Whether later and revised editions of the work will be published depends upon the interest displayed in this. However, we shall welcome any additional information concerning the families listed and all material and manuscripts will be carefully filed and preserved, so that additions may be made at any future time.

Yours very truly,

EARLY RECORDS OF THE NAME

Various theories and allegations have been advanced as to the origin of the name Heinemann. Several families claim their family name was formerly HEINE, and that "mann" was later added for some reason. Another claims their name was originally Heydt, or von der Heydt, and first evolved into Heydtmann and thence to Heynemann and finally Heinemann.

One member of a very old family bearing the name, claims it had its origin as Hindmann or Hintermann. This denoted not an inferior person, but one second in importance to and a backer of Royalty. In other words one who was known as a supporter of Royalty and the lesser lights of Royalty.

Several, including the author's father, advanced the idea that the name formerly was used to indicate "Workers in Wood". Although a study of the language casts doubt on that, it is a remarkable fact that the trend of family occupation and business shows a predominance of members engaged in business directly or indirectly related to timber, wood and work therein.

This we do know:--Regardless of changes in families within the past century or two, the name dates back centuries before America was settled or even discovered. In Westphalian records the old Latin documents show reference to Heinemann exactly as spelled today. Mecklenburg Documents record the following: (All in Latin Documents).

1270 A.D.	Heinemanus
1283 A.D.	Heinemanno
1323 A.D.	Heynemann and Heyneman
1366 A.D.	Johanness Heyneman
1375 A.D.	Henneke Heyneman and Jo. Heyneman
1376 A.D.	Hennekinus Heyneman
1385 A.D.	Arndt Heyneman and Aarend Heyneman

So we are not here dealing with a name that reflects merely an evolution through modern usage.

WILLS

Julius Heinemann
 In Baltimore County, Maryland, Will Book 83-Page 473, is recorded his will made December 29, 1899--
 Proved January 30, 1900. It names:-
 His Sons, Harry Heineman and Benjamin Heineman.
 His Daughter, Sadie Heineman.
 His Sister, Rose Seligman.
 His Sister-in-law, Mrs Elizabeth Peyser. (See Family 14)

Marcus Heineman
 In Baltimore County, Maryland, Will Book 74-Page 107, is recorded his will made April 9, 1881-- recorded May 31, 1895. It names:-
 His wife, Bette Heineman.
 His Brother, Samuel Heineman.
 His children are referred to, but names not mentioned.

Mary R. Heinemann of the City of Savannah, Georgia.
 In Baltimore County, Maryland, Will Book 117-Page 547, is recorded her will made May 17, 1887 and Proved March 13, 1914. No Heinemann is named therein. The record is silent as to her maiden name, but the inclusion of some named Russell sets up the idea that her maiden name was Mary Russell.

ORIGIN OF FAMILIES.

Many families did not give definite information as to the City, District or Province of Origin, hence an accurate summary is impossible. However, we are summarizing the available information merely as a convenient method of disclosing the emigration from sections of Germany.

Where residence was established in some Country or Countries after emigrating from Germany and prior to the Immigration to the United States, we have treated as the origin point, the last named place of residence in Germany. e.g. A family left Germany and settled in Denmark, later coming to America. We treat that family as originating at the last named point in Germany.

In cases where the information is not sufficient to enable us to identify or localize the place of residence we classify as merely originating in Germany. . few families bearing similar names have been included although apparently not of German origin.

In other cases a City and Province of the same name may cause confusion, e.g. Oldenburg in Oldenburg and Hanover in Hanover. In such cases we treat the province as the origin and do not localize in the city of the same name.

Many of the villages named as the place of origin cannot be located in any American Atlas, or in the Gazeteers we have consulted. We attribute this to the probable fact that they are too small to be so listed. However, we believe that a slight variation between the German and English spelling may account for many of these cases.

In studying the appended summary one must bear in mind that the names of Provinces and Districts as well as their boundary lines have undergone radical changes. Perhaps the most confusing groups are those under Hessen Nassau, and the various Saxon districts. These latter we have grouped under one group although this includes wholly separate provinces, states and districts.

The summary as tabulated from returns 's as follows:

Families	Summary of Origin of Families.
14	" Not showing any Province or Country of Origin.
4	" From Countries other than Germany.
10	" From Unidentified German Cities and Provinces.
3	" From Alsace Lorraine.

PROVINCE CHANGES IN GERMANY.

No attempt will be made to detail all of the vast changes made in German Province Boundaries, names, and political structures within the past two centuries. However, we will set out a few of the changes as a means of explaining some of the changes between the old names in the Family Histories and the present names.

Braunschweig, now commonly called Brunswick.
Hesse - Hessen - Hesse Cassel - Hesse Darmstadt - Hesse Homburg - Hessen Nassau. These all are now generally included in Hessen Nassau.
Holstein - see Schleswig Holstein.
Kurhessen - also called Electoral Hessen and Hesse Cassell. This is now generally included in Hessen Nassau.

Mecklenburg Schwerin and Mecklenburg Strolitz are now generally included under Mecklenburg. Prussia, Principal state in the German Empire, includes in its general outline many of the smaller states which are frequently named without reference to Prussia. Saxe-Coburg-Gotha is now separated.

Saxe-Coburg-Gotha is frequently named without reference to Prussia.
 Saxe-Meiningen - is now considered as part of Thuringia.
 Saxe-Weimar and Saxe-Weimar-Eisenach now considered as part of Thuringia.
 Saxony-the original Saxony has been divided and rearranged until it is difficult to outline it clearly. Part of its former territory is in Thuringia; part in the Republic of Saxony, and part in Saxony of Prussia.

Schleswig-Holstein-Part of this section taken from Denmark has been tentatively restored to Denmark.
 SWABIA (Swabia) was formerly a Grand Duchy, but was divided up among other states, the name now applies to a Division of Bavaria, which does not comprise all of its former territory.
 THURINGIA (Thuringen). This name was long used in the Middle Ages for the whole of the present

Thuringia (Thüringen). This name was long used in referring to a collection of small states. Later it was assigned to Saxony. In 1919 a movement was started which was completed in 1923, whereby Thuringia became a State of the German Republic and comprises territory formerly in the following: PRUSS.-: SAXE-ALTENBURG; SAXE-COBURG-GOTHA; SAXE-MEININGEN; SAXE-WEIMAR-EISENACH; SCHWARZBURG-RUDOLSTADT; SCHWARZBURG-Sondershausen.

West Prussia - Lost to Poland in 1919, except that Dantzig, its capital, was made a Free City.

RELIGION

We asked each respondent to indicate the family religion if they had no objection. About half of them did so. In some cases certain family members would claim to be of Jewish origin, while their relatives would claim to be of Gentile origin. In all such cases we omit all reference to the religion so as to avoid any controversy. In certain instances we were able to fairly well identify the religion when not indicated by respondents but we make no mention of it except when voluntarily given. The results are summarized as follows:

79	Families of claimed Gentile Origin.
9	" " " Jewish Origin.
44	" " , Religion not shown, but probably Gentile.
13	" " " " " " " Jewish.

VARIATION IN CHRISTIAN NAMES

In most of the Christian or "Given" names the similarity between the German and English names is such that they are easily identified. In a few names the difference is so marked as to be confusing. We therefore set out a few of the latter, but have made no attempt to list merely the slight changes such as Carl vs. Karl; Casper vs. Kasper, etc.

MALE

Albert and Albrecht.
Andrew and Andreas.
Carl and Charles.
Claus and Nicholas.
Fred and Fritz.
Gottfried and Geoffrey.

Jacob and James.
John and Johann and Hans.
Joseph and Sepp.
Louis and Ludwig.
Maurice - Morris - Moritz.
Ralph and Rudolph.
Reinold - Reginald - Reinwald - Reynold.
Rudolph and Dolph.

FEMALE

Charlotte and Lottie.
Eleanor - Leanore - Ella - Nora.
Elizabeth - Betty - Elsie.

FAMILY NO. 12.

George Heinemann resided in Oldenburg and came to America with his children prior to the Civil War. We have the following record of descendants from this emigrant, although the list is far from complete.

- 1 - Henry Anton Heineman, born November 12, 1834 at Attenbach, Oldenburg, Germany, died September 24, 1897, at Belleville, Illinois. Wed to: Caroline Henrietta Huber at Belleville, December 11, 1864. After arrival in New York, in August 1859, Henry Anton Heinemann, a Master Butcher in Oldenburg, worked at his trade in New York until 1861. The Civil War then being under way he enlisted in Company F of the 54th Regiment, New York Volunteers and was in service about 18 months. He was severely wounded and was left unattended on the field for three days. As the result, he was discharged from the service, and his wounds troubled him all his life, and never entirely healed. He returned to New York, resuming work as best he could. In August 1864, he came west and located at Belleville, Illinois and in December, the month of his wedding, he opened his meat shop at 128 East Main Street in Belleville. His three sons, Julius, Otto and Hugo were taught the business. After Julius married, he started a shop of his own at 102 North 11th Street and this is still being operated by him. - 1-2. Emilie Heynemann, who married a Mr. Kampfer in Berlin about 1840, and remained in Germany.
- 1-3. Franz Heynemann, who as a soldier in various armies largely devoted his life to Army service.
- 1-4. Adolph Heynemann, born in Mecklenburg-Strelitz, Germany, in 1800. He was well educated and chose Glazing as his trade. His permit for that trade is not owned by one of his grandchildren. It is signed by Georg Von Gottes Gnaden, Gros Herzog Von Mecklenburg. He also was a merchant. Following the 1848 internal troubles in Germany he fled that country and went to Denmark. From there he came to Quebec in 1852 proceeding thence to Detroit, Michigan. Adolph was twice married and his descendants, living and dead, constitute an interesting chapter in the history of American Heinemanns. By his first marriage in Germany he had one son name unknown here. (It is claimed he also had a daughter by this first marriage, but her name is not known here). From his Second marriage he had:-
- 1-4-1. Theodor Heinemann, the youngest, who was born about 1840, being 12 years old when brought to this country. He later joined the Merchant Marine, Changing his name to Brown and was drowned in the Indian Ocean.
- 1-4-2. Bernhard Heinemann, the second son, went to New Orleans, before the Civil War and started a tin shop. He was drafted into the Confederate Army. Afterward he operated a hardware store in Crete, Illinois, going thence to Chicago, where he died. We have no information concerning his descendants, except that one relative reports he left two sons in Chicago, Adolph Heinemann and Martin Heinemann. Our search has not unearthed any record of any relatives running back through this line, although scores did not respond and some of these may have descended from Bernhard.
- 1-4-3. William Heinemann, the eldest son, who was born in Wesenberg, Mecklenburg-Strelitz, Germany, March 25, 1837. He came to this country with his father's family in 1852 and completed his education for the Lutheran Ministry at Ft. Wayne, Indiana. He was ordained in 1857. He served in Chicago, Crete, Oakville, Bremen, Dietrich, and Worden Illinois; St. Louis and Baden, Missouri, and died in Worden, Illinois in 1918. He is buried there. He was twice married. By the first marriage he had:-

3. Otto Heinemann, born in Obernkirchen, Hessen Nassau, Germany, Feb. 25, 1834. He came to America in 1848 and settled in Cincinnati. There we find him listed in the early directories of that city, where he started learning his profession, pharmacy, at an early age. He married Mary Stolz, Oct. 15, 1857. She was the daughter of John and Barbara Stolz. As soon as qualified he acquired his own place of business at Lin and Laurel Streets and there he continued in business for forty-four years. Here he instructed his five boys until each was proficient in the profession of his father, as well as being qualified by education for their chosen professions.

From his father-in-law, John Stolz, he acquired the famous old "Van Zandt" farm near Cincinnati. That farm, when owned by John Van Zandt, was made famous by Harriet Beecher Stowe, in Uncle Tom's Cabin. In the book, VAN TROMPE was the name given to Van Zandt, and an interesting historical account of incidents when the property was a station of the "Underground Railway" is in the possession of a son of Otto's.

Incidentally, Van Zandt was finally tried and convicted of assisting fugitive slaves to escape. He was imprisoned and his property attached. He was defended by Salmon P. Chase. He died in poverty, but his body was later removed to Cumminsville, Ohio, where a monument was erected to his memory. They had:-

FAMILY No. 80.

HEINEMANN, resident of Madgeburg, Germany had 13 sons of which we have a record of only two. They were:

1. Lebrecht Gottlieb Heinemann, born in Madgeburg, December 24, 1815. He learned watchmaking in Berenburg, Germany. In 1846, he came to America and settled in Philadelphia, where he established a Watchmaking and Jewelry Business, at 135 North 6th Street, later going to Second and Arch Streets.

In 1865 he retired from business and returned to Germany, settling in Magdeburg, Germany, where he lived from 1865 to 1868. In 1868 he moved to Freiburg, (Theuringen) Germany, where he remained until 1876 when he moved to Dresden (Saxony) Germany. Due to money losses arising from the Franco-Prussian War, he was forced to re-enter business, which he did in Dresden. In 1884, he returned to Philadelphia and reestablished himself in the Jewelry business at 137 North 9th Street, with his son, Otto William Heineman, as a partner, under the name, G. Heineman & Son. The business is still carried on under that name at 1033 Chestnut Street, by the surviving partner, Otto William Heineman.

Lebrecht Gottlieb Heinemann, was twice married. His first wife was Doris E. Stuebbe, whom he married in 1845 in Berlin, Germany. She emigrated with him to America. After her death, he married her widowed sister, Mathilde Hucke, nee STEUBBE. She was born 1830 and died in Philadelphia in 1917. He died October 1902.

FAMILY NO. 101.

Henry Heinemann was the State Gardener in Berlin, and a resident of Brandenburg, Prussia, Germany. He had one brother, a bachelor, who taught school for fifty years. Henry had:

1. Ida Heinemann, who came to America with Carl F. and married _____ Krieger, a shoe manufacturer, in Syracuse, New York.
2. Emma Heinemann, of whom no further record is given.
3. Henry Heinemann, of whom no further record is given.

4. Carl Frederick Heinemann, born in Brandenburg, in 1828 and came to America about 1856 or 1857. He was married in 1858 at Cincinnati where he remained for several years. In 1863 he joined the Aurora Labor Colony which settled at Bay Port, Huron County, Michigan. This was one of the early cooperative colonies, and many of its members, like our subject, became pioneers in what was then virtually a wilderness, and had much to do in upbuilding their great state. Carl F. lost an eye which prevented his joining the army during the Civil War.

After several years in the Colony, Carl F. moved to Saginaw and entered the employment of the Pere Marquette Railroad as an upholsterer. His wonderful wife and mother of his splendid family did her share in bringing up the youngsters under conditions such as would have broken the spirit of many.

About 1875, they took up a homestead near Pigeon, Huron County, Mich. The pioneer mother and her growing family cared for the farm while Carl F. continued his work to help finance the venture.

As the boys grew into manhood, they were taught trades and contributed their share in making their own way until they established families of their own.

From such as these we get the best of the blood that makes America great.

Carl Frederick Heinemann died in 1904; his widow in 1914. They had:

- 4-1. Morse C. Heinemann, born in Cincinnati, Ohio, March 5, 1860. He married Lena Kondal and now resides in Seattle, where he is a contractor. They had:
 - a. Roy R. Heinemann, married and has one daughter.
 - b. Hilda Heinemann, who wed Coma. Howard B. Berry, U. S. N. They have: Howard B. Berry, Jr.
 - c. Mildred Heinemann, deceased.

- 4-2. Charles E. Heinemann, born in Cincinnati, Ohio May 8, 1861 and married Caroline Rogner. He is Tool Superintendent of the Pere Marquette Railway and resides at Saginaw, Michigan. They have:

a. Minnie Heinemann, who married George Wallis and they have: Dorothy Wallis.

FAMILY No. 101. Concluded.

- b. Gertrude Heinemann, who married Hilton Denfield and they have Caroline and George Denfield.
- 4-3. Frank F. Heinemann, born in Cincinnati, Ohio Oct. 25, 1862 and married Sophie Stein. Going with his parents to Michigan he pioneered with them until he was man in his own right. He then took up a homestead near Pigeon, Mich. There they brought forth their family of seven youngsters. The mother died of typhoid in February 1901 and the father died from a fracture of the skull, caused by a horse kick the next October. The seven orphans were taken in charge by their relatives so that they could continue to build upon the foundations ably started by their parents. The Children were:
- Carl F. Heinemann, born March 16, 1890 at Pigeon, Michigan. He married Dora G. Leipprandt and they have: Theodore Heinemann; Carol Heinemann; and Rosemary Heinemann. They reside at Saginaw, where he is plant engineer for Baker Perkins Company, Inc.

HEINEMANN of Germany had:

1. _____ Heinemann, of Kurhessen Germany, who had:

- 1-1. Jacob Heinemann, who married in Germany. In a biography, of a son from his second marriage, it is stated that Jacob came from Alsace Lorraine in 1849. Living descendants claim the family came from Kurhessen or Electoral Hesse. Relatives who knew him and who still lived in 1931, claim he and they came from Kurhessen. (Now Hesse Nassau.)

His wife, whose maiden name was Catherine Elizabeth Viehman, died of cholera on the Mississippi River Boat, coming from New Orleans, leaving Jacob with his three children.

- 1-1e. Elizabeth Heineman, who died in infancy.
- 1-1f. Maud Heineman.

- 1-2. John Heinemann, brother of Jacob, but about whom we know little except that he came to America with Martin Heinemann's folks, June 18, 1850 and had sons Martin and George.

2. Johannes Heinemann, born in NIEDERKAUFUNGEN (Probably Kauffungen) near Cassel, Germany March 1815. Died in Belleville, Illinois in August 1893. He was twice married and had three sons, which belongs to each wife we do not know. He had:

- 2-1. Martin Heinemann, born in Kurhessen in 1840 and came to America with his father on June 18, 1850. He enlisted in Company A., 12th Regiment, Missouri Volunteers and served from August 16, 1861 to August 12, 1864. He was in the battle where his cousin, once removed, August Heinemann was captured. (see 1-2b. above). June 10, 1865 he wed Catherine Mueller at Belleville, Illinois. She died in 1903. He was naturalized in Belleville, March 30, 1865. At the time this is written he is the oldest known Heinemann born in Germany and now living in America; certainly the one having longest continuous residence here. He is 91 (1931). He resides at 516 North Illinois Street. The author visited him there in 1931. He has:
- 2-1a. Martin Heinemann, Belleville, Illinois.
